PARAGONS OF DUTY.

Droll Legends of Filial Piety as Practiced in Japan.

The Japanese make much of the duty of children to parents. In some of their popular stories they exaggerate the wholesome virtue until it becomes absurd. There is a group of such tales called "The Four and Twenty Paragons of Filial Piety," some of which Mr. Basil Hall Chamberlain collects in "Things Japanese."

One is the story of the paragon whose cruel stepmother was very fond of fish. In spite of her harsh treatment he lay naked on a frozen lake until his body melted a hole in the ice. He caught two fish that came up to breathe and set them before his stepmother. Another paragon lay uncovered at night in order that the mosquitoes should fasten on him alone and allow his parents to slumber undisturbed.

Still another, who was extremely poor, determined to sacrifice his own child in order to save food to support his aged mother. He was rewarded by heaven with the discovery of a vessel filled with gold, on which the whole family lived happily ever after. A fourth gave her father a chance to escape while she clung to the jaws of the tiger which was about to devour him.

The drollest story of all is of Revnshih. This paragon, although seventy years old, used to dress in baby's clothes and sprawl about the floor. His object was plausibly to delude his parents, who were more than ninety years of age, into the idea that they could not be so very old after all, seeing that they had an infant son.

Danger in Cigar Cutters.

The large man had just bought a popular black cigar and was inserting it in the cutter.

"Don't do that!" exclaimed the tall man of cadaverous feature.

"Good gracious, why not?" demanded the large fellow.

"You wait here with me for five minutes, and you'll see why not."

A man came up and bought a cigar. He wetted the mouth end slightly, put it in the cutter, lighted it and walked off.

"Did you see that?" asked the cadaverous man. "Did you see his color and hollow cheeks? If he isn't in the last stages of consumption, I don't want a cent. Can't you just imagine the tubercle bugs in that cigar cutter?" he said triumphantly.

The large man didn't say anything, but he looked anxious.

In the course of five minutes as many customers bought cigars, and three of them wetted the mouth end before they used the cutter.

"Guess I'll buy an individual cutter," said the large man as the pair at last moved out of the shop.—New York Mail and Express.

Animals as They Sleep.

"In mild weather," says a gentleman farmer quoted by the Philadelphia Record, "my horses and cattle sleep afire, and sometimes I wander softly among them in the moonlight. It is strange to see how they lie, with every head pointed in the same direction, the direction from which the wind is blowing. Do you know why that is? It is because they have in them an instinct of fear, and they front the wind so that their keen noses may catch instantly the first breath of an approaching danger. Poor things! All you have to do is to approach softly from behind, and you can be right in among them before they are aware of it. My horses are even more cautious than my cattle, for they, in addition to facing the wind, sleep also with one ear cocked backward. Then I have a dog that sleeps not only facing the wind and with one ear cocked, but with one eye open also. He is, for sure, a coward."

The White Pine.

The white pine is distinctively a northern tree. The native distribution of the tree was from Newfoundland, on the east to Lake Winnipeg on the west and thence to the southern boundaries of Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut. The white pine belt also followed the Appalachian range as far to the south as Georgia. The best growth of the tree was in Maine and the British territory east of the state, along the St. Lawrence river, in New Hampshire, Vermont, northern New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and central Pennsylvania.

Classifying a Mummy.

The story is told of a French savant returned from Egypt bringing a royal mummy with him, and the case was opened at Marseilles. Being told that it contained a pharaoh, the officer looked up pharaoh in the tariff, but no mention could be found of such an article. Then it occurred to him that a nice, high duty was on dried fish, and the savant had to pay as if for that commodity.

Madge—I wonder why she bothers so much about her complexion?

Marjorie—I suppose it's because she hasn't any.—Judge.

He Wouldn't Interfere.

An old Scotchman went to stay for a short time, as he said, with friends of his, a young couple with no family. After living with them for some two or three weeks the young couple began to get tired of their visitor, but did not like to tell him the state of their feelings toward him, so they arranged a little plan between them as to how they would get rid of him.

"Tomorrow," said the husband, "when I come home for dinner, I shall quarrel about the soup and say it is not good. In the midst of our quarrel we will appeal to our friend, and if he takes your part I will give him notice to leave the house, and if he takes my part you do just the same."

Next day at dinner the "quarrel" arose about the soup, and in the heat of the argument "uncle" was appealed to, but he coolly replied:

"Ye see, ma freens, for a' the time I intend tae be here—just a month or twa—I hae made up ma mind no tae interfere wi' yer hoose affairs."

A Story of Wendell Phillips.

At the close of the civil war and before he was well known Wendell Phillips, the distinguished abolitionist, went to Charleston and put up at a hotel. He had breakfast served in his room and was waited upon by a slave. Mr. Phillips seized the opportunity to represent to the negro in a pathetic way that he regarded him as a man and a brother and, more than that, that he himself was an abolitionist. The negro, however, seemed more anxious about his breakfast than he was about his position in the social scale or the condition of his soul, and finally Mr. Phillips became discouraged and told him to go away, saying that he could not bear to be waited on by a slave.

"You must 'seuse me, massa," said the negro. "I is 'bliged to stay here 'cause I'm 'sponsible for de silver-ware."

Charley's Choice.

"Mummy," said a small girl—"mummy, dear, I do wish I might give some money for poor children's dinners."

"So you may, darling."

"But, mummy, I haven't any money."

"Well, darling, if you like to go without sugar I will give you the money instead, and then you will have some."

The small child considered solemnly for a moment, and then said, "Must it be sugar, mummy?"

"Why, no, darling. I don't mind much. What would you like to do without?"

"How would soap do, mummy, then?" exclaimed the small maiden in triumph.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Got His Money.

When King Edward VII. was an undergraduate at Oxford, he was a great huntsman, and few men could beat him across country. On one occasion his royal highness and some other riders galloped into a farmyard by way of a short cut. The farmer, a sturdy yeoman, closed the gates and told the huntsmen they must pay £1 apiece for trespass.

One of the gentlemen smiled indignantly at the rustic and said, "But, my good man, this is the Prince of Wales."

The good man was in nowise abashed and retorted, "Prince or no prince, I'll have my money." And he got it.

A Lost Chance.

"He that will not when he may" is likely to repent his indecision for many a long day afterward. A lady who had spent a weary hour in "beating down" the salesman at a Turkish shop in Paris returned the next day prepared to purchase. "I believe you said 20 francs," she began, taking out her purse.

"Ninety, madame!" answered the smiling Turk.

"But you came down to twenty?"

"Ah, that was yesterday, madame! Everything goes up again in the night!"

Noted Postmen.

The native runner postmen of Natal are strikingly picturesque when on business bent. With their sandaled feet and headdress of dried leaves, which rattle as they run, and a military greatcoat, underneath which is a garment called the mucusu, they travel for miles at a jog trot at four miles an hour and receive as payment $5 a month.

Won the Crowd.

Charley Burley, the abolitionist, in the midst of an antislavery speech was struck by a decayed egg full in the face. Pausing to wipe away the contents of the missile, he said calmly, "I have always contended that proslavery arguments were very unsound." The crowd roared, and he was no longer molested.

It may be better to be born lucky than rich, but no one can be sure about it for the reason that he who is born rich is lucky.—Saturday Evening Post.

The egotist could die happy if he thought he could deliver his own funeral oration.

SHROVE TUESDAY JOKES.

Peculiar Ideas of Humor Possessed by Two French Kings.

In all countries where Lent is kept—except in Russia, where Ash Wednesday is not observed—Shrove Tuesday, the last day before the beginning of the penitential season, has been given over to mummings, sports and practical jokes. In both England and Scotland, in which latter place the day is known as Fastens een, it was in times past a great holiday for the apprentices and working classes generally.

A grewsome joke was played by Louis XI. one Shrove Tuesday when at night he ordered his guards to rouse the sleeping villagers near and bring them to the castle. From almost every tree in the surrounding wood, it is said, a dead body dangled, and to the music of his fiddlers Louis compelled the villagers to take a gibbeted corpse for partner and dance before it till morning. Those who had husbands, sweethearts or relatives among the dead were forced to have them for partners.

Later Charles IX. enjoyed a practical joke at Shrovetide that was less grim in its character, secretly giving ten of the most skillful pickpockets in Paris full leave to steal whatever they could without being found out at the carnival ball. Louis himself enjoyed their dexterity and the dismay of those who missed their jewels, swords, girdles and other valuables.

An Early Press Agent.

Though absurd wagers, often inconceivable to other people, are now sometimes made, they are not so prevalent as in the eighteenth and early part of the nineteenth centuries. The absurdity of a wager made by some persons in 1749 is only equalled by the credulity of the multitude. On Jan. 16 of that year, according to widespread announcements, a person would play on a walking cane at the Haymarket theater the music of every instrument, get into a quart bottle and while there sing several songs, at the same time permitting any spectator to handle the bottle. The theater could hold but a small proportion of the immense crowd, but the performer did not appear. Some person behind the curtain announced that if the audience would remain there until the next morning instead of going into a quart bottle he would get into a pint one. But, though the multitude had faith in the quart, the pint bottle was too much. A riot ensued, and the interior of the theater was destroyed.—London Chronicle.

Save Your Eyes.

If your eyesight is good, take care of it. Look away off yonder every time you get to the bottom of a page in reading. If it is defective, let no foolish pride prevent you from wearing the proper glasses.

There is no sense in handicapping yourself in life when a piece of glass before each eye will make your vision as good as it possibly can be. The oculist will not advise you to wear glasses if you do not need them any more than he will prescribe a drug you do not need.

Plenty of people, though, do not know that they have defective sight because they have never really seen at all. They have headaches, inflamed eyes, sties, even much graver troubles, from the strain of trying to see with eyes that were put up wrong. There are cases where homicidal insanity has been completely cured when impaired vision has been corrected.—Harvey Sutherland in Ainslee's Magazine.

A Scriptural Male.

"I'll be ready for you in a minute," said the old colored farmer to the sheriff; "dez ez soon ez I feeds Solomon."

"Who's Solomon?"

"He's my mule, suh. Dat what he name is."

"Why did you give him that name?"

"Kaze he de wisest mule in de county, suh, en he tink dat fast travellin' is all vanity en vexation er sperit, thins fulfillin' de book er Proverbs!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Failed to Catch the Tune.

A professor in an old Pennsylvania college was conducting a review in Latin. Of a sleepy looking youth he asked the question, "What construction is that at the top of page twelve?"

"I don't know," was the prompt reply.

"Why not?" thundered the professor. "I have been harping on that construction all term."

"I know you have, professor," was the soft reply, "but I haven't caught the tune yet."

It is said that when Alaric, the conqueror of Rome, died "a river was turned aside to make a place in its bed for his grave, and when he was buried the water was again let into its former channel, and the prisoners who had helped to bury him were killed, so that no one might find out where the conqueror of Rome was buried."

Climbing Animals.

Dogs often have to be trained to climb stairs, instinctively distrusting the upper stories. It has been conjectured that this is because the dog's forelegs break easily below the shoulder, and the beast seems to realize this. The fox has no such fear and has been known to climb a tree with plenty of small limbs to the height of seventeen feet. Swimming comes easier than climbing to most animals as well as to many races of men. Rats and guinea pigs can swim well and do not climb at all.

Bears can climb well if little, but the grizzly and other large species stay mainly on the ground. A bear always climbs down a tree backward, as does the domestic cat until she has nearly reached the ground, when she turns and jumps, but most wild cats run down a trunk head first, even the heavy leopard being a more skillful climber than the light house cat. The tiger and lion, however, do not climb, for no discoverable reason unless it be that they fear falling on account of their weight.

Modifications of Iron.

Add carbon to pure iron, and it becomes steel. Add a hydrocarbon to iron, and steel itself becomes so extensively modified that its properties are not recognizable. Thus steel may be soft as pure iron. Add hydrogen in varying quantity, and it has the quality of resilience, as in the watch spring, or the quality of tenacity, as in the knife or razor, or may be given nearly all the hardness of a diamond, as in a file. With steel at a low temperature, from 400 to 450 degrees F., edge tools are produced and color in the yellow shades; from 500 to 525 degrees various sorts of springs are produced, color blue, while by heating iron to whiteness and plunging it into water, which is mainly composed of hydrogen, files are produced or forms even harder.

Ice in the Sickroom.

A medical journal tells how a saucer of shaved ice may be kept in a sickroom through a day and night if need be, even with a fire in the room. Put the saucer holding the ice in a soup plate and cover it with another. Then place the soup plates thus arranged on a good, heavy pillow and cover with another pillow, pressing the pillows so that the plates are completely imbedded in them. The paragraph adds that one of the best ice shavers is an old jack pine set deep. It should be turned bottom upward and the ice moved backward and forward over the cutter.

To Forget.

Feeble natures live in their sorrows instead of converting them into apothegms of experience. They are saturated with them, and they consume themselves by shing back each day into the misfortunes of the past. To forget is the great secret of strong and creative existence, to forget after the manner of nature, which knows no past and begins again every hour the mysteries of her indefatigable productivity.—Balzac.

A Golden Bath.

Mme. du Barry when at the zenith of her power had a bath so constructed that on touching a tap a cascade of golden louis, from a reservoir that was always kept well filled, mingled with the flow of scented water. This device was fashioned, it is said, to represent the legend of Danae.

An Indian Almanac.

The Indians in Canada, when they go to hunt for the long winter, take a flat wooden almanac, with a hole for each day. Sundays are marked and holidays so as to be distinguished, and fast days have a rude fish. The owner, moving his peg each day, keeps up with the times.

PITHY POINTS.

Taylor keeps pretty "cool" at Indianapolis these times.

Congress is the only tribunal that can right the great wrong and indignity done Admiral Schley.

Gaunt poverty stares some people in the face constantly, while others rise above it, seemingly without much exertion.

There's no relationship between the groundhog and polecat likely, as the latter don't seem to have gone into his hole to any appreciable extent.

The German-Americans won't be apt to take much umbrage at what's said about Prince Henry, as they left Germany to get away from Princes and such like.

Guess that last sentence given Jim Howard just suited his taste and feelings much better than the former—the one to the gallows; although some individuals and newspapers appear so aggrieved thereat.

The President being aware that he couldn't divide the honor for the Santiago victory between Schley and Sampson, divided it between Schley and Captains of the Brooklyn and other vessels, as he was determined to allow Schley the least he could.

It isn't the juries nor yet the Judge that can be said to have settled the cases of such characters as Yontsey and Howards; but the overwhelming evidence of their guilt as accessories to the assassination of Governor Goebel is what consigned them to the state's prison for their natural lives.

Exchange: "The young man who knows how to lay off corn and potato rows, and to regulate the distance of the same so as to get the crops, is worth a cow pen full of mules, kid gloves, fancy overcoated fellows who know how to lead a fashionable waltz. Setting a plow just right and adjusting the gears so that backs and shoulders of the horses will never hurt, are worth a thousand fold more to the country than knowing how to pose in the parlor. Yes, a girl that can bake a loaf of bread and make a sweet roll of butter is worth a whole seminary of those soft hand angels who sit in the 'pabbah' and let their 'mas' do the kitchen work."

Judge Whitaker slipped and fell near his home Sunday morning, pain full in jarring one of his hands.

Messrs. W. H. Rice, Will Key and John Perkins were appointed to appraise the personal estate of the late James T. Rumford.

Articles of incorporation of the Dover Brick and Tile Company have been filed in the County Clerk's office. The capital stock is $6,000. The incorporators who also hold all the stock are Messrs. George M. Clinger, John S. and Walter R. Wilson.

Mr. W. W. Wikoff, local agent of the C. and O., was called to Mason, O., Sunday by the death of his grandmother. She had reached the advanced age of eighty-nine. During Mr. Wikoff's absence Mr. Tuco Willett is in charge of the C. and O. business at this point.

William Slack, driver of Schatzmann's beer wagon, had a narrow escape from drowning at an early hour this morning. While in an intoxicated condition he walked over the bank at the foot of Market street. Policemen Newell and Orr, Captain Phister, Mr. J. P. Wallace, Mr. Ed. Schwartz and others finally succeeded in pulling the unfortunate man out of the river, in front of the Cooper warehouse.

The Louisville Times pertinently suggests that sending the trust lawyer Attorney General Knox after the railroad trust is like hunting ducks with a brass band.

The Washington Post suggests, in view of President Roosevelt's queer opinion, what a time we would have had in apportioning the responsibility at Santiago among the Captains, had Cervera's fleet escaped!

A CONNECTICUT Yankee who has noticed that personal property easily succeeds in evading taxation, proposes a scheme to stop it. He would let each person go to the public authority and be permitted to estimate his own wealth. That estimate would be accepted as correct without a question. Then when a man dies only so much as he has paid taxes on should go to the heirs, and any amount that has escaped taxation, would go to the State. The plan is ingenious and might prove more equitable than the present system, making personal property bear more of its just burden which now falls on real estate. How it would act as a reality in operation is a problem for future working.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

It has been the BULLETIN's custom to deal very liberally with advertisers—almost no restriction being placed upon the frequency of "changes." The only stipulation heretofore made was that "copy" should be furnished early the afternoon previous to that on which the announcement was to appear. This rule has not been rigidly adhered to of late, but its enforcement becomes necessary from this on in order to give the morning's time to news features of the paper. Besides, we try to lend mechanical attractiveness to your space, and this cannot be accomplished when everything is done in a rush.

Hereafter "eleventh hour" changes will be held over till next day. Merchants will kindly take note of this and please give attention to our very reasonable request.

MAYSVILLE'S TRIUMPH.

What a Fleming County Citizen Has to Say About Our Third Annual Tobacco Fair.

(W. S. Fitzgerald, of Elizaville, in Ewing Inquirer.)

Kindly permit me, as a visitor to the Maysville Tobacco Fair on Saturday last, to express hearty delight at the success which, on that occasion, crowned the enterprise of that bright and bustling city. The fact that Gov. Beckham, who holds so high a place in Kentucky's regard, and former Gov. Bradley, were to speak, attracted thousands to the promising metropolis of Mason County, but the occasion could not have been made the triumphant success it proved to be, if the citizens of Maysville had not shown foresight, enterprise and hospitality. Maysville knows how to attract, and how to entertain a crowd. Saturday's gathering, viewed from any standpoint, was a great success. It brought thousands of American citizens together socially to celebrate Washington's birthday. It brought men of business, farmers and planters together for commercial purposes. It brought in fine young men and young women of Kentucky to a beautiful city of our great Commonwealth to enjoy a rare intellectual treat in many fine speeches. Every town in this section of Kentucky can take a leaf out of Maysville's book of progress. Fleming County was well represented at the tobacco fair; its lady visitors to Maysville were noted superlatively fine.

In the same issue, Judge Wyatt, editor of the Inquirer, says:

The tobacco fair at Maysville was a grand success from every point of view—an immense crowd and fine weather.

Gov. Beckham's presence attracted a goodly number of people and his address, while very short, was to the point and highly commended. Our fellow countryman, Capt. W. G. Dearing, electrified the audience with an able oration. John Shuff, of Cincinnati, said many appropriate things, which Judge Newell, as he is wont to do, demonstrated his fitness to occupy the very important place to which he has been twice elected by a handsome majority.

To John Duley, Hal Curran, the Ledger and BULLETIN, are due perhaps more credit than anyone else for the great success. May they continue in this good work and in time arouse the Fleming County people from their long sleep, that they may don a new role and get abreast of the times.

A Great Day For Maysville.

Speaking of the recent tobacco fair, the Paris Democrat says: "It was a great day for Maysville, and to no one is more credit due than John Duley, President of the fair. Such a city as Maysville can always make a success of affairs of this kind. The people may differ in politics and religion, but when it comes to pushing along an enterprise to further the interests of the city, all put their shoulders to the wheel and help it along. Even Tom Davis caught that happy feeling, and twice during his speech referred to our 'Good Governor.'"

For Sale.

By order of the Mason County Court, as assignee of H. C. Barkley & Co., there will be sold for cash, on the 6th day of March, 1902, the uncollected notes, accounts, &c., of said firm—being about $3,200. The sale will be to the person making the highest sealed bid. The bids will be opened at 10 o'clock a. m. on said March 6th. Parties desiring to make a bid on the paper can see it by calling at the First National Bank.

W. W. BALL, Assignee.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Owens, Mr. Charles Clift, Mr. Jas. Detto, Mrs. Martha Detto, Misses Celia Evans, Lucy Morgan and Cumme Baldwin, who united with the Christian Church during the recent meeting conducted at Murphysville by Elder T. S. Buckingham, of Washington, assisted part of the time by Elder R. E. Moss of this city, were baptized Sunday afternoon at the Christian Church, this city. Mr. Ed. Henson made the confession at the opening of the services, and was also baptized. The members of the congregation at Murphysville will meet next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock to perfect their organization. They contemplate erecting a house of worship at an early day. They are indebted to members of the Presbyterian Church at that place for many favors kindly extended during the recent meeting.

SAVES LIFE

Willard, Ill., August 1, 1900.
 I was in bad health this spring and could not sit up in bed for four weeks. When I was confined my child died. When I began to sit up I felt so weak and had such terrible pains in my back and hips. I had kidney trouble and falling of the womb. I also had hysterical spells. I was in a bad condition when I received your "Ladies' Birthday Almanac" and read the advertisement of Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught. Since April 20th, I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui and three packages of Thedford's Black-Draught. I feel like a new person now. I can do all my work and can walk out to see any of my neighbors. I believe I would have been in the grave had it not been for Wine of Cardui. IT SAVED MY LIFE.
 Mrs. ALICE DAVIS.

It is well that women are more patient than men. Few men could bear the bitter pangs, the agony and distress that women endure. Thousands of women have come to look upon suffering as a duty of their sex. But there are many instances of this heroic fortitude which now renders unnecessary. Women need no longer suffer for modesty's sake. Wine of Cardui brings relief to modest women in the privacy of their homes. Many of the best homes in this city are never without this great medicine. It cures whites and falling of the womb and completely eradicates these dragging periodical pains. Mrs. Davis' cure shows you conclusively what you may expect if you follow her example and take Wine of Cardui. Thedford's Black-Draught aids Wine of Cardui by regulating the stomach and bowels. When you ask your druggist for these medicines, be sure you get them. It was Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught that saved Mrs. Davis' life. Never take a substitute.

FORTUNES IN OIL!

Kentucky just now is attracting prospectors from all over the land. The wells already sunk prove it a very rich oil producer. MONEY INVESTED NOW MAY DOUBLE OR QUADRUPE IN LESS THAN A MONTH.

Our holdings consist of about 5,000 acres in Wayne County, near the great Sunnybrook field, about 6,000 acres in Lincoln County, and 600 acres in Licking Valley in Bath County, close up to Ragland. Our first two wells near Ragland are producers. We have started to drill in all three counties, and expect to strike oil in every well. We are still acquiring valuable lands in addition to those already secured, and lying in close proximity to the greatest developments in the State.

A limited amount of the treasury stock will be sold, at $5 per share, par value of shares $10 each. This stock will, we confidently believe, be selling for par in thirty days.

PARIS GREEN ON TOBACCO.

No Need to Use the Poison if All Farmers Would Follow This Plan.

The bill to prohibit the use of Paris green on tobacco to destroy the worm is meeting with strenuous opposition in the Legislature, and the measure may not pass. Those fighting it argue that farmers would not, if it passed, be able to grow as much of the weed, as they would not be able to prevent the ravages of the worm on the growing plant. This argument would not hold good, for years ago before Paris green was ever thought of for destroying the worm, larger crops of the weed were grown than at present.

There will be no necessity, however, for using Paris green, if all tobacco growers will adopt the plans suggested for killing the fly or moth that produces the worm. One plan that has been found very effective is to use cobalt or arsenic in jimson bloom placed about the tobacco field. The fly seeks this bloom and is killed by the poison. The great trouble, however, so far as this plan is concerned is to obtain sufficient of the jimson flowers.

A still better plan and one much easier to carry out has been used successfully by a farmer of this county. He places a number of coal oil torches about his tobacco fields at night. These lights attract the fly, their wings are singed and they are then killed next morning. The farmer in question destroyed 600 moths, by actual count, in one night.

Let the tobacco growers all adopt this plan and it will not only save them a vast amount of labor, but will prevent any serious damage by the worm, at the same time rendering unnecessary the use of Paris green.

FALLING AT PITTSBURG,

But the River is Still Rising at This Point. Street Cars Transferring at Bridge Street.

A telegram Sunday afternoon from Pittsburg to the C. and O. operator at this place stated that the Ohio had fallen three feet at that place during the day, and the worst of the flood was over. The rise at Pittsburg on Saturday was so rapid that many cattle perished in the railroad yards at that point. The marks showed something over thirty-five feet as the highest stage at Pittsburg.

Here the river is still rising. It got into the "ditch" under the C. and O. bridge last night and the street cars are now transferring at that point. The Pittsburg water is expected to make several feet more here, but it takes a big volume of water to keep the Ohio at its present stage.

The Bonanza passed down this morning and is to-night's packet for Pomeroy. The Virginia for Pittsburg to-night. The big towboat Harvester passed up this morning.

Nabisco sugar wafers—Calhoun's.

A "Trinket" cigar.

Mr. O. H. P. Thomas is somewhat improved.

For fresh oysters and fish call on Biagiotti & Co.

Mr. J. C. Everett was on 'Change at Cincinnati Friday.

Mrs. H. F. Turner is very ill at her home on Forest avenue.

Edward Fulton, of Huntington, W. Va., may start a flour mill at Dover.

It is again rumored that the C. and O. will be double tracked from Cincinnati to Ashland.

Mr. W. B. McAtee, who has been ill some time, was in a critical condition this morning.

The Licking Valley Oil Company has completed its eighth well in Bath County. All are producers.

The statement is made that it costs $60,000 a year to maintain free turnpikes in Fayette County.

A couple of drummers from Portsmouth by the name of Tyree and Smith were drowned Sunday in the Big Sandy river.

Dr. Cecil Hudgins has brought suit against Carter County for $4,500 for services rendered during the recent small-pox epidemic.

Major John Lane tripped on a wire at his home at Washington, throwing him prone on the ground and injuring him very seriously.

Hon. James E. Cahill qualified Saturday as administrator of the late James T. Rumford. See notice elsewhere in this issue to creditors and debtors.

Miss Lizzie Shoven has sued Mr. Harlan Teager for $7,300 damages for breach of marriage contract. The defendant is sixty-eight and the plaintiff about forty-two years of age. He has been paying alimony to Miss Shoven for over twenty years.

The remains of little Eugene Dodson, who died a few weeks ago at Georgetown, O., will be brought here on the 10 a. m. train Tuesday morning and laid to rest in the Maysville Cemetery. Deceased was a son of Elder and Mrs. R. H. Dodson, formerly of Dover, and a nephew of Mrs. J. W. Clinger, of the Sixth ward.

CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET.

Heavier Receipts Expected From This On. Increased Offerings Last Week and Improvement in Quality.

	Week.	1901.
New (hds.).....	1902.	1,129
Old.....	820	745
Total offerings.....	1,704	1,901
Total rejections.....	302	223
Actual sales.....	1,402	1,581
Receipts.....	957	878

The 934 hds. new averaged $7.26 per 100 lbs., as against $7.22 for the 630 hds. last week and $6.75 for the 1,159 hds. in the corresponding week last year.

The 830 hds. old tobacco averaged $8.78 per 100 lbs., as against $8.41 for the 1,032 hds. last week and $8.61 for the 745 hds. in the corresponding week last year.

The feature of the week was the increased offerings and improvement in the quality of the new tobaccos in the breaks. The inferior and low grades of new under $6 were dull and easier with a considerable shading in prices. Strictly good fillers and medium bright leaf showed a decided improvement, active competition being the rule throughout the week for everything of merit in these grades. Good color continues exceedingly scarce in the new crop, and considerable of the offerings were of a nondescript character with a greenish tinge and in rather soft condition.

While the holdings of the better grades of old are rapidly diminishing, the prices suffered a decline during the week. Prices on the good red fillers were very disappointing to shippers, who assert that where they were selling at 10c. to 11c. the market justifies a higher range for these sorts, and that they ought to be bringing from 12c. to 14c. Buyers, however, are evidently attracted to and giving their attention to the strictly good new tobaccos and choice fillery goods in old are therefore temporarily neglected. Good color lugs from 7 1/2c. to 8c. and the bright cutters from $15 to $20 were the best sellers in the old crop and commanded the most attention, but the quantity of the latter in the breaks during the week was exceedingly small.

With the breaking up of the extreme cold weather and opening of the river heavier receipts are expected from now on, and the market is expected to take on a more animated appearance than has prevailed in the past three weeks.

Cholera would frighten many people who are not afraid of germs. Yet the germ is a real danger. If this microscopic animalism could be magnified to a size in proportion to its deadliness it would show like a giant python, or fire-breathing dragon. The one fact to remember is that the germ is powerless to harm the body when the blood is pure. It is far easier to keep the germ out than to drive it out after it obtains a hold in the system. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most powerful and perfect of blood purifying medicines. It increases the quantity as well as the quality of the blood, and enables the body to resist disease, or to throw it off if disease has obtained a footing in some weak organ. Wherever the digestion is impaired, the nutrition of the body is diminished, for the blood is made from the food which is eaten, and half digested food cannot supply the body with blood in quantity and quality adequate to its needs. For this condition there is no remedy equal to "Golden Medical Discovery." It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred persons who give it a fair trial. When there is constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will promptly relieve and permanently cure.

Special Notice.

For the next fifteen days we will offer our entire stock (recently purchased) at a big reduction. Solid silver, cut glass, watches, diamonds at a price that bars competition. All we ask is that you call and examine. To look is to buy.
